

Streamlining Direct Benefit Transfer with Newgen's BPM

Overview

The Government introduces various social welfare schemes for the benefit of citizens. To ensure effectiveness of these schemes, it's vital that benefits reach the intended beneficiaries. As a result, the government introduced Direct Benefit Transfer (DBT) - a step towards citizen-centric and accountable governance.

DBT aims to ensure that citizens gain the maximum benefit from various Government programs such as Student Scholarship, National Child Labor Project, and others by transferring funds directly to their bank account. However, in the current state of document-intensive workflows, multiple manual hand-offs and silo processes, state governments are fraught with various challenges. Successful implementation of DBT demands streamlined workflow, effective fund management, monitoring tools and seamless intake from multiple channels. Technology can empower officials and departments, allowing enhanced collaboration, better monitoring and fast-track of fund flows.

Challenges

- Inadequate fund monitoring systems
- Longer review and delayed approval cycle
- Delay in fund disbursement due to lack of collaboration
- Limited visibility to citizens and beneficiaries
- Manual processes, resulting in errors and delays
- Limited initiation channels for citizens to apply for schemes
