*"Prioritize your interests,
not just the challenges"*

Family background

Muskan hails from a small village in the Nalanda district in Bihar. Her family moved to Tehkhand, New Delhi, with a dream to provide better education for their children. They live in a single room home with a small kitchen and washroom. Muskan's family consists of four members- her father, mother, younger sister Mona, and younger brother.

A Spark of Inspiration

Muskan's younger sister Mona was the first to connect with the Newgen Digital Discovery Paathshala (NDDP). Muskan watched Mona engage in online classes, news reading, debates, and quizzes. Inspired, she too started to join all the online sessions and began participating actively. Her sister had already received a tablet from NDDP, where she learned to make presentations and used to join NDDP sessions.

Rising Through Challenges

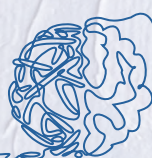

A lone experience of life changed her outlook completely, when people around her doubted her academic abilities. "They used to say that I would fail in Class 10th." Muskaan took it as a challenge and not only did she pass her 10th board exam, but she also scored an impressive 82%, proving everyone wrong.

After that, she began to take everything as a challenge. She completed class 10th from Government Girls Senior Secondary School, Tehkhand. In class 11th she transferred to School of Excellence, Kalkaji as it offered science stream for the students. She chose Science with Biology and excelled once again in Class 12th board exams.

A Change of Heart

Muskan started preparing for the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) medical entrance exam. She received a scholarship and a tab because of her dedication. However, soon, she realized her true passion didn't lie in medicine. "This isn't for me. I don't want to become a doctor." She made the bold decision to stop preparing for the NEET and instead focus on what truly interested her.

Mental Health & Emotional Growth

"Teenage years need clarity," she says. Earlier, she believed crying was a sign of weakness. Now, she sees it as a strength. She discovered her emotional side, which balanced out her practical mindset. She realized everything cannot be taken as a challenge, we should also find interest in it.

Turning to Her Passion

Muskan always had a business mindset. Discussing several career paths with her uncle, she enrolled in a Diploma in Pharmacy (D. Pharma) from Delhi Pharmaceutical Sciences & Research University. She received a scholarship for the course again and said that it has helped her a lot. She plans to get licensed and start her own pharmacy store, while pursuing a B.Sc. degree from IGNOU.

Practical Experience at Lady Hardinge Hospital

Muskan has already done her internship at Lady Hardinge Hospital, Connaught Place, New Delhi. Here, she received hands-on training in: Patient handling, Counseling, Medicine dispensing and Prescription reading. "I enjoy this profession very much," Muskan shares.

Future Vision: Entrepreneurship in Healthcare & Cosmetics

If all goes well, Muskan plans to open a healthcare clinic focused on community well-being. She wants to launch her own line of skin care products which would be known for its quality. She shares that her products would be categorized and divided by skin type, concerns, and age group. She wants to combine her knowledge of health and business to make a real difference.
