

Intelligent, Cloud-native Enterprise Content Management

Enterprises with large-scale archives operate under intense regulatory scrutiny, records retention mandates, data privacy laws, audit obligations, and client SLAs. While storage is mature, monetizing and activating archival content remains manual, slow, and compliance heavy. NewgenONE ECM enables organizations to move beyond storage, transforming archives into a governed, searchable, intelligence layer. Built for scale, regulation, and traceability, the platform uses AI-driven automation and deep integrations to unlock value from content without compromising compliance.

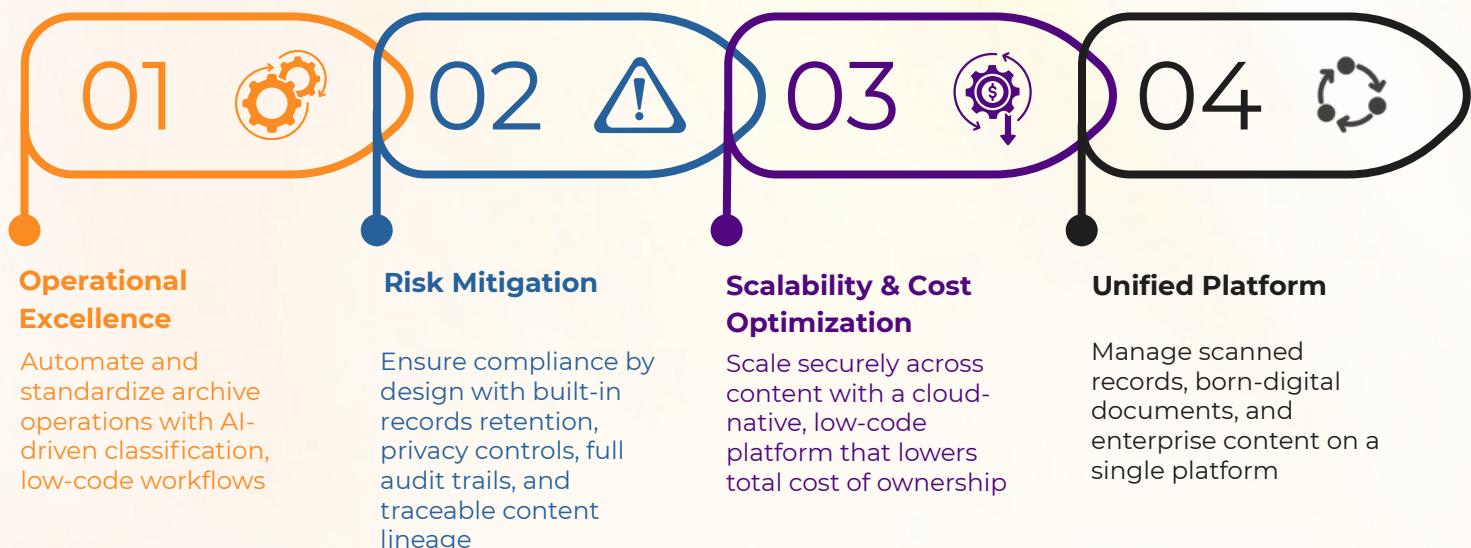

Challenges with Traditional ECM

The Newgen Advantage

Capability	Other Vendors	NewgenONE ECM Platform
Core Strength	Storage-first platforms focused on preservation and retrieval	A unified platform covering the entire content lifecycle from ingestion and governance to activation and monetization
Content Contextualization	Limited indexing and static metadata	AI/ML models classify records, enrich metadata, extract context, and auto-tag content, turning archives into a searchable knowledge layer
AI & Automation	Limited or no GenAI or Agentic AI capabilities	GenAI and agentic capabilities enable intelligent discovery, compliance checks, summarization, and insight generation across massive archives
Scalability	On-premises deployments with limited scalability	Cloud-native, microservices-based architecture designed to scale
Compliance & Governance	Manual governance, fragmented audit trails	Centralized, automated governance with built-in retention, defensible deletion, audit trails, and compliance frameworks
