Independent Auditors' Report

To the Board of Directors

McLean, Virginia

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Newgen Software, Inc. (a Delaware corporation), which comprise the balance sheet as of March 31, 2025, and the related statements of income, retained earnings, and cash flows for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Newgen Software, Inc. as of March 31, 2025, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of Newgen Software, Inc. and to meet our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audit. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about Newgen Software, Inc.'s ability to continue as a going concern within one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of Newgen Software, Inc.'s internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about Newgen Software, Inc.'s ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control related matters that we identified during the audit.

Report on Supplementary Information

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the financial statements as a whole. The income statement detail on page 20 is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the financial statements. Such information is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements. The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves, and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the information is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements as a whole.

(NSI) (the Company) is a software development and technician placement company with proven expertise in software development, consulting, document management and workflow solutions, outsourcing and computer aided design-related services. Note 1 Summary of significant accounting policies (continued)

Accounts receivable

The Company provides credit in the normal course of business. Interest expense is not charged on these contracts. Accounts receivable are stated at the amount management expects to collect from balances outstanding at year end. Past due balances over 90 days and other higher risk amounts are reviewed individually for collectability.

The Company provides an allowance for credit losses that are based upon a review of outstanding receivables, historical collection information, and existing economic conditions. Normal contracts receivable are due 30 days after the issuance of the invoice. Receivables past due more than 90 days are considered delinquent. Delinquent receivables are written off based on individual credit evaluation and specific circumstances of the customer. Credit loss expense for the year ended March 31, 2025, totaled $304732.14.

Sales taxes

The Company's policy is to present taxes collected from customers and remitted to governmental authorities on a net basis. The Company records the amounts collected as a current liability and relieves such liability upon remittance to the taxing authority without impacting revenues or expenses.

Recognition of revenues

The Company recognizes revenue when, or as, they satisfy performance obligations under a contract. A performance obligation is the unit of account for revenue recognition and refers to a promise in a contract to transfer a distinct service or good to the customer. Performance obligations may be satisfied over time or at a point in time. The Company selects the appropriate measure of progress for revenue recognition based on the nature of the performance obligation, contract type and other pertinent contract terms.

Certain contracts may contain multiple performance obligations for revenue recognition purposes. The Company considers each performance obligation that provide value to the customer on a standalone basis a separable element. Separable elements in these arrangements may include the hardware, software, installation services, training and support. The Company initially allocates consideration to each performance obligation using the relative selling price method.

NEWGEN SOFTWARE, INC.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

March 31, 2025

Recognizing revenue on contracts involves significant estimates and judgements. Contract terms may include variable consideration, such as reimbursable costs, performance bonuses or other provisions that can either increase or decrease the transaction price. Variable amounts generally are determined upon the achievement of certain performance metrics, program milestones or cost targets and may be based upon customer discretion. When making estimates, the Company considers the customer, contract terms, the complexity of the work and related risks, the extent of customer discretion, historical experience and the potential of a significant reversal of revenue. The Company includes variable consideration in the transaction price only to the extent it is probable that a significant reversal of cumulative revenue recognized will not occur when the uncertainty associated with the variable consideration is resolved.

Contracts are sometimes modified to account for changes in contract specifications and requirements. Most of the Company's contract modifications are for goods or services that are not distinct from existing contracts and are accounted for as if they were part of the original contract. The effect of a contract modification on the transaction price is recognized as an adjustment to revenue on a cumulative catch-up basis. The Company accounts for contract modifications as a separate performance obligation when the modification results in the promise to deliver additional goods or services that are distinct.

The Company works with private and public entities as well as government agencies across the United States and around the world.

Sale of license

Revenue from sale of licenses for software products is recognized when the significant risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the buyer which generally coincides with delivery of licenses to the customers, recovery of the consideration is probable, the associated costs and possible return of software sold can be estimated reliably, there is no continuing effective control over, or managerial involvement with the licenses transferred and the amount of revenue can be measured reliably.

Rendering of services

Revenue from services rendered is recognized in proportion to the stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date. Efforts or costs expended have been used to measure progress towards completion as there is a direct relationship between input and productivity.

Software implementation services

The revenue from fixed price contracts for software implementation is recognized based on proportionate completion method based on hours expended, and foreseeable losses on the completion of contract, if any are recognized immediately. The Company is also involved in time and material contracts and recognizes revenue as the services are performed.

Annual technical services

Revenue from annual technical service and maintenance contracts is recognized ratably over the term of the underlying maintenance arrangement.

Sale of right to use software

Software-as-a-service, that is, a right to access software functionality in a cloud-based-infrastructure provided by the Company. Revenue from arrangements where the customer obtains a “right to access” is recognized over the access period. Revenue from client training, support and other services arising due to the sale of license is recognized as the performance obligations are satisfied. Revenue is recognized, net of returns, trade discounts and volume rebates. This inter alia involves discounting of the consideration due to the present value if payment extends beyond normal credit terms. Reimbursements of out-of-pocket expenses received from customers have been netted off with expense. Amounts received or billed in advance of services to be performed are recorded as deferred revenue. Unbilled revenue represents amounts recognized based on services performed in advance of billing in accordance with contract terms.

Income taxes

Deferred tax assets, including tax loss and credit carryforwards, and liabilities are measured using enacted rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. Deferred income tax expense represents the change during the period in the deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities. The components of the deferred taxes are classified as non-current at net.

Actual results could differ from these statements.

During the year ending March 31, 2020, the Company adopted the new ASU 2016-02, Leases (Topic 842) for leases. The new standard defines a lease as a contract, or part of a contract, that conveys the right to control the use of identified property, plant or equipment (the underlying asset) for a period of time in exchange for consideration.

Under the new standard, the Company has recognized lease assets and liabilities, with certain exceptions, on the balance sheet. Both financing leases and operating leases create an asset (Right of use or ROU asset) and a liability measured at the present value of the lease payments that are reflected in the accompanying balance sheet. Short-term leases with terms of one year or less, that do not include an option to purchase the underlying asset, are not included in the measurement of lease assets and liabilities.

The Company assessed whether any expired or existing contracts are or contain leases. The lease classification was also assessed to determine whether there were any expired or existing leases classified as operating leases. The Company does not have any existing leases that were classified as capital leases, and accordingly, does not have any leases that will now be classified as financing leases.

The Company made an accounting policy election, as a non-public business entity, to use a risk-free discount rate, commensurate with the term of the lease, to determine the present value of the lease payments for each lease agreement. In addition, the Company does not separate the non-lease components contained in "full service" leases for office space.

Note 14 Risks and uncertainties

Recent U.S. tariffs, announced by President Donald Trump in April 2025, impose a 26% reciprocal tariff on Indian exports, targeting a large basket of goods with a few exceptions. The baseline tariffs of 10% have been implemented, whereas the same is expected to get increased to 26% by July 2025.

However, the scope of these tariffs is restricted to goods and does not extend to services. As software services and digital products, including CRM software licenses, are not directly subject to these tariffs, this largely shields Newgen's core revenue from direct tariff impacts. However, there could be certain implications concerning exports of ancillary 'goods' (for instance – on-premises hardware for hybrid deployments (if any), etc.), wherein the reciprocal tariffs may get attracted.

It is also noteworthy that there is a moratorium on e-commerce agreed at the World Trade Organization (WTO), pursuant to which WTO Member countries have agreed to not impose customs duties on electronic transmissions.

That being so, the download of software (supplied by Newgen) may not get covered under any tariffs owing to the aforementioned moratorium – which the US is party to.

However, since there is an ambiguity around the scope of what is covered under the e-commerce moratorium and what remains out of it – a detailed deep dive of the products/ services exported to the US may be warranted to understand the coverage vis-à-vis recently imposed US Tariffs. Considering the prima facie view shared above, as of now, there is no change required from Transfer Pricing perspective.
